Sun-sational weekend

Finally. Clouds part to let soggy Halifax residents enjoy Saturday, Sunday

Turn it up
23 C

The high on Sunday at Stanfield International

RUTH DAVENPORT
ruth.davenport@metronews.ca

A sunny, warm weekend offered a brief respite from June's dreary pattern of rain and gloom — and no one wanted to pass it up.

"It's like, I am not sitting in the house another day, so we decided to come down here," said Amanda McClary, lounging with a friend and people-watching in front of Murphy's on the Water Sunday.

Fully half the days in June have brought rain so far, and the total accumulation at Halifax Stanfield International Airport has reached 122 mm — well above the monthly average of 98.3 mm. The average temperature — 14.1 C — has hovered right around the normal of 15 C. However, as the mercury topped 22 C on Sunday, dozens of residents and tourists joined McClary on the waterfront to seize the day. "I'm exhausted and incredibly hot," said a perspiring young Isaac Munday after his first-ever clamber up the Wave sculpture.

Isaac's father Michael said the conditions were an ideal Father's Day gift. "We're out of the house! It's not raining!" he said, as he and wife Hannah headed for the Bishop's Landing fountains to help Isaac and his two brothers cool off.

Summer officially begins on Friday, and Environment Canada's three-month outlook suggests normal precipitation and above-average temperatures for Nova Scotia.

However, the Mundays said they weren't holding their breath for another record-breaking summer like last year's. "At this point, if there's not actually icebergs drifting into the harbour, I'll call it a win," said Hannah.

Outdoor lover. Dal student missing in canoe mishap

Sophie Smith FACEBOOK

Friends of a missing London teen and student at Dalhousie University in Halifax speak of a friendly, happy and musical girl with a love for the outdoors.

Sophie Smith, 18, went missing after having problems with her canoe on Kamagama Lake near Dorset, Ont., on Friday, the Ontario Provincial Police said.

Police searching for her found a "deceased female" on Saturday. A post-mortem has been scheduled to identify the body.

Friends said Smith, who just finished her first year at Dalhousie University, spends her summers in Dorset, about 230 kilometres north of Toronto, where her family owns a cottage.

Lindsay Dunn, 20, worked with Smith two summers ago at the general store in Dorset. She calls her "a really eco-friendly kind of person. She really wanted to make the world different for everybody."

"Last summer she opened up Sophie's Healthy Smoothies shop. She was a really happy girl. She really loved being outside all the time. She loved camping, canoeing, swimming. She was always running events and getting people involved."

Minister repeats: No changes to landfill

Otter Lake. New letter comes before presentation to council on shuttering front-end processing

The provincial environment minister has told the citizen committee that oversees the Otter Lake landfill that no changes will be made to the permit before it expires.

"After discussing this matter with your MLA ... I instructed staff not to consider any amendments to the provincial permit for the Otter Lake landfill until it expires in 2022," Sterling Belliveau writes in a June 12 letter to Community Monitoring Committee (CMC) chair Jack Mitchell.

Mitchell and Halifax Deputy Mayor Reg Rankin asked Belliveau to clarify an earlier, similar statement made in the wake of a consultant's report that recommends closing the landfill's front-end processor and waste-stabilization facility.

The CMC will present concerns about those recommendations to Halifax regional council's committee of the whole on Tuesday.

Ken Donnelly of Beyond Attitude Consulting, who will represent the CMC, said the committee is concerned that the city is still putting those recommendations to public consultation, even though the minister has said they won't be allowed.

"There's no point ... causing a lot of tension and unnecessary angst in that community," he said.

The two facilities sort organics from the waste stream and dry them before they reach the landfill. The processing was included in the terms of the permit to minimize the landfill's impact on the surrounding community.

Donnelly said the recommendation to close them, included in a review of HRM's solid waste management system by Stantec Consulting, is based on incomplete data and flawed cost comparisons.

He said the report suggests the two facilities aren't profitable, but he said they were intended not to make money but to mitigate problems caused by untreated organics.

He said the system is in need of review, but the focus shouldn't be on the almighty dollar.

"The CMC would love ... to try to build a waste-management system that is better, not just cheaper," he said.

Timberlea. 18-year-old charged with attempted murder in shooting

A 18-year-old male is facing three counts of attempted murder in relation to a shooting in Timberlea.

Police received a 911 call about a shooting outside a home on Forest Glen Drive just before 10 a.m. on Saturday.

Three teens — aged 17, 18 and 19 — were arrested at the scene. No one was injured but police say two firearms were seized.

Impaired driver crashes into back of vehicle: Police

A 35-year-old man is facing a charge of impaired driving after police say a speeding vehicle struck another vehicle from behind, sending it across the road and into a guard rail.

The accident happened just before 9 p.m. Saturday on Portland Street near Portland Estates Boulevard. There were two people in the vehicle struck from behind, but neither was injured.

Both vehicles were heavily damaged, a police release states. The 35-year-old driver of the speeding vehicle escaped injury as well but was arrested for impaired driving. METRO

Rehtaeh was out of reach: Report

'One of too many'

Most of the 13 recommendations offer somewhat vague suggestions on how to improve collaboration within the province's health, education and justice systems

In the months before she committed suicide, 17-year-old Rehtaeh Parsons could have turned to a variety of programs aimed at troubled youth, but she often remained out of the reach of those who could help her, a new report says.

An independent review of the school board's handling of her tragic case released Friday concluded the Halifax Regional School Board could have done a better job, but it was hindered by the fact that she was rarely at school.

"Even though there were communications as she transferred (between schools) ... it doesn't seem as if the adults in her world were able to help her as she was going through this trauma," co-author Debra Pepler told a news conference.

"Nobody was able to grab hold of her and help her navigate that."

Rehtaeh hanged herself April 4 and was taken off life-support three days later.

Her family alleges she was sexually assaulted by four boys in November 2011 and that a digital photograph of the incident was passed around her school in Cole Harbour, prompting months of harassment through social media.

The case and a number of other high-profile cyberbullying cases has sparked a national debate about online harassment.

The school board review commissioned by the provincial government says cases like Rehtaeh's are all too common.

"Rehtaeh Parsons' story is one of too many in Nova Scotia and across Canada involving young people who see no way out of their problems," said the review. "This is why our emphasis has to be on prevention of bullying, cyberbullying and sexual assault."

Facebook statement

Family needs time to 'absorb' the report

Rehtaeh Parsons' parents couldn't be reached for comment, but her mother Leah issued a statement on Facebook, saying the family needed time to read the report. "We will be speaking out about our thoughts once we can absorb this information more thoroughly," she wrote. THE CANADIAN PRESS

However, the review said Rehtaeh's constant truancy made it difficult for school and mental-health officials to keep an eye on her, said Pepler, a psychology professor at York University in Toronto. THE CANADIAN PRESS

'You have robbed me of my son,' mom of chained teen tells LeBlanc

Confinement, rape.
Man says nothing
before being handed
11 years in prison

A 16-year-old boy who was chained inside a South Shore cabin where he was repeatedly raped for a week still suffers the physical and emotional wounds from the horror, his mother said Friday as his tormentor was sentenced to 11 years in prison.

David James LeBlanc, 48, sat impassively in court as the mother glared at him while reading from two victim impact statements, one from herself and one on behalf of her son.

"You have robbed me of my son ... and made a hole in my heart," she said.

Her cheeks reddened as she told Nova Scotia Supreme Court in Bridgewater how her son can no longer sleep, suffers anxiety attacks and is fearful every time a door

"You have no idea what it is like to look on the face of my son ... and see nothing but a shell of his former self."

closes on him.

The mother said her son's hand is damaged and his wrists are scarred from being chained to a room that was surrounded by pornographic photos.

He no longer feels safe at night, and carries mace in fear of another abduction, she said.

"Let my son be the last victim ever," she said, pleading with the Crown to apply to have LeBlanc declared a dangerous offender.

Reading the victim impact statement from her son, she said, "You have no idea how painful it is to fall asleep while being chained."

When Judge Richard Coughlan asked LeBlanc if he had anything to say, he replied, "Nothing."

An agreed statement of facts says LeBlanc offered the boy a painting job and drove him in a van from Halifax to Lunenburg County on the pretext of picking up painting supplies.

Instead, the boy was taken to a bedroom inside a cabin in Upper Chelsea, about 130 kilometres southwest of Halifax, where his clothes were taken and he was repeatedly sexually assaulted, the statement says.

During his captivity, the boy was "secured naked by chains attached to his wrists and ankles and in turn to bolts in both the floor and ceiling of a bedroom."

LeBlanc was charged after a 78-year-old woman reported in September that a barefoot teenager wearing only a hooded sweatshirt arrived at her doorstep in Upper Chelsea chained at his wrists and ankles. THE CANADIAN PRESS

ATV driver badly hurt in crash

A man was sent to hospital with serious injuries Saturday evening after crashing his all-terrain vehicle in the Annapolis Valley.

RCMP say the crash happened around 10:15 p.m. in West Dalhousie, about 15 kilometres off a road.

Police say the ATV left the road and rolled over, coming to rest in a body of water.

The driver, a 55-year-old

Man dies in industrial accident

A 58-year-old man working on a cargo jet near Halifax Stanfield International Airport has died in HRM's latest industrial accident.

RCMP were called to a building on Pratt and Whitney Drive near the airport around 4:43 a.m. Friday.

"While workers were loading a cargo jet with ... a hydraulic baggage loader, a 58-year-old man got trapped and unfortunately lost his life," said RCMP spokesperson Cpl. Scott MacRae.

He said police don't believe there was anything suspicious or criminal about the incident.

On Friday afternoon the provincial Minister of Labour, Frank Corbett, issued a release to say his thoughts were with the worker's family.

"This is an absolute tragedy that is happening too often," Corbett said.

The man was an employee of Servisair, according to the release.

Corbett said the loading work the victim was doing is federally regulated. The federal Department of Labour has safety officers on site and is now leading the investigation.

This is the third work-related accident in just over four weeks. In May, a man died after falling from an apartment building roof, and another was electrocuted after working in Bayers Lake.

According to the provincial Labour Department, this marks the 15th workplace fatality in Nova Scotia in 2013.

"There will be a time to discuss further measures but out of respect for the family, now is not the time," Corbett said. HALEY RYAN/METRO

He has been released and will appear in Dartmouth provincial court on July 23.

After months of threats, N. Korea wants to talk

After months of threatening to wage a nuclear war, North Korea issued a surprise proposal Sunday to the United States: Let's talk.

But the invitation comes with caveats: No preconditions and no demands that Pyongyang give up its nuclear assets unless Washington is willing to do the same — ground rules that make it hard for the Americans to accept.

Washington responded by saying that it is open to talks — but only if North Korea shows it will comply with the UN and live up to its international obligations.

Trudeau: I'd 'pay all the money back'

'I am going to fix this.'

Liberal leader, despite insisting he's done nothing wrong, says he's willing to compensate charities who paid him

Quoted

"I trust Canadians. I value their opinions. And now that I've heard them, I'm going to act."

Liberal leader Justin Trudeau, acknowledging the public backlash to the disclosure of his personal finances.

Justin Trudeau is promising to compensate all groups that paid him hefty speaking fees to participate in fundraising events since he became an MP.

The Liberal leader said Sunday he'll either give back the fees or find some other way to "make it right."

He could, for instance, give charitable groups donations equivalent to the fees charged or agree to appear at future fundraisers for free.

"I'm willing to pay all of the money back, if that's what it comes to," Trudeau told CTV. "But I am going to fix this."

Trudeau has been under fire since Friday, when it emerged that he'd refused to reimburse the Grace Foundation, a New Brunswick charity that lost money after paying him $20,000 to speak in June 2012.

Trudeau stressed Sunday that all his speaking engagements were cleared by the federal ethics commissioner, that he never used any parliamentary resources and that none of the money he earned went to finance his leadership bid.

"I'm doing this not because I'm worried that I did something wrong, because I didn't. Everything was done exactly according to the rules."

Awareness, empathy

"It doesn't affect how smart they are; it doesn't affect what they can do."

Cathy Wylie, president of the Tourette Syndrome Foundation of Canada

An advocacy group for people with Tourette's syndrome is asking Twitter users to let a bot take over their accounts so it can blast out random stuff, including swear words, as a means of raising awareness.

"Wednesday from 9 o'clock on, tweets will come out from your Twitter handle with the equivalent of verbal tics. You won't know when they're coming and you won't know what they are saying, and that's to mimic the way that real verbal tics happen," said Cathy Wylie, president of the Tourette Syndrome Foundation of Canada. The automated tweets will come out with a link to surrenderyoursay.com so followers can find out more.

Tourette's syndrome is a neurological disorder characterized by involuntary vocal and physical outbursts. The stereotype of the syndrome is sudden, involuntary swearing, but it's not the norm, with fewer than 10 per cent suffering such outbursts, said Wylie.

Kids with the syndrome tend to get picked on by bullies and have trouble making friends, while among adults the unemployment rate is four times as high as the general population, Wylie said, adding that about 20 per cent of people with the syndrome report having been fired or passed over for jobs because of their illness.

Military. Army worried about anniversary booze

The Canadian Army is all for its soldiers raising a glass to toast upcoming milestones, as long as nobody thinks there's a product endorsement going on.

And anyone in the general public who would like a sip will remain thirsty unless someone in uniform is willing to share.

National Defence recently issued guidelines to govern the production and sale of commemorative beer, wine and spirits for the splash of celebrations expected next year.

In 2014, the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, the Royal 22 Regiment, Royal Montreal Regiment and Regiment du Hull will all mark the 100 years since their formation. Other even older units are currently in the midst of the 150th anniversary this year.

"In the recent past, various alcoholic beverages were produced to commemorate regimental anniversaries," Lt-Gen. Peter Devlin, the army's commander, was told in a recent briefing. "Many units and regiments are contemplating fundraising efforts featuring the debatable use of (intellectual property)," such as cap badges and regimental colours.

A spokeswoman for the army, Colleen McGrann, said on Friday the department issued guidelines, including limiting the sale to within the military, and requiring associations to ask for permission to use regimental logos.

'Branded beverages'

Officials within National Defence are worried about civil and criminal liability if something happened to someone using "branded beverages" — the possibility of regimental reputations being tarnished and the publicity nightmare that would follow potential incidents.

Summit's agenda focuses on tax evasion and trade, but backdrop to talks is fraught global outlook

Europe is mired in debt and recession. Financial markets have hit violent ups and downs on fears that U.S. stimulus efforts may soon be scaled back. Japan is finally looking up after years of stagnation — but it remains an open question if the recovery will stick.

BP oil spill. As cleanup patrols end, tar balls keep washing up on beaches

Finding tar balls linked to the BP oil spill isn't difficult on some Gulf Coast beaches, but the company and the government say it isn't common enough to keep sending out the crews that patrolled the sand for three years in Alabama, Florida and Mississippi.

Tourist John Henson of Atlanta disagrees, particularly after going for a walk in the surf off Gulf Shores, Ala. last week and coming back with dark, sticky stains on his feet.

Henson said there were plenty of tar balls to remove from the stretch of beach where he spent a few days.

Environmental advocates and casual visitors alike are questioning the Coast Guard decision to quit sending out BP-funded crews that have looked for oil deposits on northern Gulf Coast beaches on a regular basis since the 2010 spill.

APOLOGY WILL COME, BUT NOT NOW

For the lawyers, of course, it is about protecting the client, lessening liability, mitigating damages. In that context, perhaps, it makes lawyer sense to nigger over nouns, to parse phrases like “as if we were slaves” for literality, to offer up a bookkeeper’s balance sheet to contradict allegations of underfunding, to use all the lawyers’ tricks to try to make a legal action go away.

But the class-action lawsuit by more than 150 former residents of the Nova Scotia Home for Colored Children is more than a legal matter.

It is a cry for justice, for an acknowledgement — and apology — for five decades of systemic and systematic physical, sexual and emotional abuse of vulnerable children under the unwatchful eye of a series of governments, whose blindness seems wilful and, too often, racist.

You’d think Darrell Dexter’s NDP government would appreciate that distinction. The abuse did not happen under its watch, and the NDP has a long and honourable tradition of supporting victims like those at the Home for Colored Children.

But it is now the government, and that, it seems, changes everything.

Last week, lawyers for the Dexter government were in court arguing, in a bureaucratic, tone-deaf, legally proper but morally questionable way, to exclude parts of the complainants’ affidavits because they did not meet certain legal criteria.

As former NDP MP Gordon Earle, who quit the party over this issue, put it: While residents seek “justice and accountability ... the government is taking every possible step to prevent the matter from achieving justice through the court system or achieving a full, credible and transparent examination through a public inquiry.”

There will almost certainly come a time when a Nova Scotia government, either as part of a legal settlement or to avoid a messy judicial outcome, will do the right thing and apologize to

Snagged on technicalities

As former NDP MP Gordon Earle, who quit the party over this issue, put it: While residents seek “justice and accountability ... the government is taking every possible step to prevent the matter from achieving justice through the court system or achieving a full, credible and transparent examination through a public inquiry.”

the former residents. Witness Stephen Harper’s 2008 apology for Canada’s brutal Indian residential-school system, Brian Mulroney’s “formal and sincere” 1988 apology to Japanese-Canadians interned during the Second World War and Peter Kelly’s 2010 apology to the former residents of Africville “for what they have endured.”

By then, however, the gesture will seem inadequate and insincere. The lawyers will have won. Justice will have lost. Pity.

RE: Parliament Hill Tourist Guides Trained To Praise And Defend The Senate, published online June 16

The content of this article does not support the sensationalist headline. The NCC is not training an army of apologists or propagandists, they are training a group of young Canadians to provide information to visitors about Canadian governance (amongst many other topics).

What would have been sensational is if they had trained these summer students to greet visitors with a stinging indictment of the Upper Chamber or, for that matter, any other aspect of our governmental systems.

It should not, therefore, be seen as an apology for the Senate and its current troubles, nor a manifesto on what the Senate should be, but rather as what it is: a training manual intended to allow summer students to greet visitors with basic information about how Canada’s government works.

MMVAs red carpet looks

Taking the time to reward entertainers for excellence in their fields is nice and everything, but everyone knows awards shows are really all about the red carpet. The MuchMusic Video Awards are no different:

METRO
halifax@metronews.ca

And the winners are ...

- Video of the year. Inner Ninja - Classified ft. David Myles, director: RT! Half Life Records/Universal Music Canada
- Pop video of the year. Desperate Measures - Marianas Trench, director: Kyle Davison 604 Records/Universal
- Dance video of the year. The Veldt - deadmau5 ft. Chris James, director: Manroop Takhar; Joel Zimmerman Ultra Music/Universal

- Your Fave International Artist/Group. 22 - Taylor Swift

1 Taylor Swift. Black and white and Red hot

Despite being in the middle of a tour (she performed the night before to a bajillion teen girls at the Rogers Centre) Taylor looked lovely as always. ALL PHOTOS THE CANADIAN PRESS

3 Marianas Trench. Swimming choices

Every party needs someone to wear the proverbial lampshade. The MMVAs got four with these fetching mermaid-man rockers.

2 Kardinal Offishall. Brings the bling

Studded brass knuckles, two watches, and what appears to be a cranky sumo wrestler pendant might appear to be too much, but Kardinal keeps it together with a simple polo shirt.

4 Chavril. Matchy-matchy

Everyone's favourite (not!) two-headed CanCon celeb, Chad Kroeger and Avril Lavigne donned complimentary black leather, with a spikey crown for the lady. It even appears that they got the same dye-job at the salon.

5 Ed Sheeran. Let's go Blue Jays let's go

The folk-pop favourite went for local with a vintage looking (all the way in '93 era?) sports tee.

Kim Kardashian and Kanye West ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

It's a girl for Kim and Kanye ... and she looks just like her mom

Kim Kardashian gave birth to a baby girl Saturday morning in Los Angeles, sources confirm to People magazine.

The baby, a first for Kardashian and boyfriend Kanye West, was believed to be due in July but arrived early, just days before the release date of West's new album, Yeezus. Sources says West was by Kardashian's side for the labour and delivery.

Kardashian and West welcomed their daughter at Cedars-Sinai Hospital, and the new arrival already resembles her mom, a source tells E! News. "She looks just like Kim," the source says.

There has been no official word on a name for the little girl, but Kardashian reportedly told friends and family prior to the birth that her daughter's name "will start with a K."

Katie Holmes had dinner with Gloria Steinem. It may seem odd, but they had plenty of things to talk about as Gloria, of course, is concerned with women's freedom and autonomy and Katie recently discovered that those two things actually exist.

It's looking more and more like Katy Perry and Robert Pattinson are dating. She really likes his looks and sense of humour and he likes that she's not his cheating, contractually-obligated-to-fake-date co-star.

Stamos still thinks about 'the one that got away'

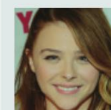

John Stamos reveals that before he and Lori Loughlin played husband and wife on Full House, they actually dated briefly in real life — and the memory has stayed with him.

"We were friends, we were on the soaps together and we actually did date," Stamos says during a Huffington Post live chat.

"We went on a date to Disneyland before, you know, before we were both married. In real life, when we were 18, 19 years old. We did have some off timing, but no disrespect to her family and her husband now, I would say that she could be the one that got away."

Vital checkpoints

IT'S ALL RELATIVE
Kathy Buckworth,
kathybuckworth.com

Realizing you forgot your passport at the hotel or your iPhone in a cab is extremely stressful, especially when travelling with kids. Here are checkpoints for any traveller.

Airplane seat pockets

Never put anything in the airplane seat pocket that you want to have with you when you leave the plane. Keep a bag under the seat in front of you with these items.

Hotel Rooms

Do a room check every time you leave, including bathroom, closet, dresser drawers, even when you are sure you didn't put anything there — little hands move things.

Taxi Cabs

Resist taking items out in the cab but upon leaving, take a good backward glance in case phones, wallets or other valuables have fallen out of your pocket or purse.

Airport Security

We're used to "stripping down" for security, but double check that phones, wallet, belts, passports are with you.

Restaurants

Do what's known as the "mom check." Check the table, the floor, and all the chairs for forgotten items (those little hands again!).

Bubbles

The Canadian Toy Association chair Kerry George said bubbles continue to be big with the younger crowd, from colourful solutions with the traditional built-in wand to machines cranking out the globules at the push of a button.

Chalk

For the more artistically inclined, sidewalk chalks in a multitude of hues — and even glittery varieties — will keep pavement Picassos occupied.

Airplanes and contemporary toys

Boys still love planes, cars and trains. One notable difference among some contemporary toys is the use of eco-friendly materials, like the PVC-free Green Toys Tractor from recycled milk jugs.

Slide into barbecue season

Ingredients

Pineapple Salsa

- 1 can (375 ml/12 oz) pineapple tidbits
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) fresh lime juice
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) olive oil
- 1 garlic clove, crushed
- 1 ml (1/4 tsp) pepper flakes
- 5 ml (1 tsp) sugar
- 1 jalapeno pepper, diced
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) each diced red pepper and red onion
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) each finely chopped cilantro and parsley
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) salt
- 1 ml (1/4 tsp) pepper

Chicken Sliders

- 500 g (1 lb) ground chicken
- 45 ml (3 tbsp) finely crushed saltine crackers
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) pineapple juice
- 45 ml (3 tbsp) thick teriyaki sauce
- 5 ml (1 tsp) dried parsley
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) grated onion
- 1 ml (1/4 tsp) salt
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) pepper
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) thick teriyaki sauce (to use for glazing after sliders come off grill), plus more for basting
- 16 to 18 small slider buns

This recipe makes 16 to 18 sliders. THE CANADIAN PRESS H/O

1. To make salsa: Drain pineapple tidbits, reserving 15 ml (1 tbsp) of liquid for sliders. Squeeze lime juice into glass bowl and add drained pineapple and olive oil. Stir in garlic, red pepper flakes and sugar. Stir veg and herbs into pineapple mix. Add salt and pepper. Refrigerate for at least 2 hours

2. In mixing bowl, place all ingredients except 125 ml (1/2 cup) teriyaki sauce and buns.

Using hands, gently mix until all ingredients incorporated.

3. Form small meatballs and flatten in palm of your hand to make patties that are no larger than 7.5 cm (3 inches) in diameter. Place on parchment-lined baking sheet until ready to grill.

4. Grill chicken sliders, basting with teriyaki sauce on both sides. Cook sliders until a meat thermometer registers 74 C

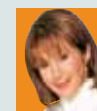

(165 F).

5. Heat 125 ml (1/2 cup) teriyaki sauce and pour into a glass baking dish. When sliders come off the grill, place into warmed sauce to glaze.

6. Toast split buns, if desired, and place meat on buns. Top with pineapple salsa. Serve. THE CANADIAN PRESS/ MENNONITE GIRLS CAN COOK CELEBRATIONS BY LOVELLA SCHELENBERG ET AL (HERALD PRESS, 2013).

While Freshii is typically known for its healthy choices, there are some menu items that boast an excess of calories, fat and sodium.

Freshii Burrito

1,036 calories / 60 g fat / 1,315 mg sodium

This burrito has close to a day's worth of calories, fat and sodium. The tortilla and rice exceed your calories and carbs in one meal. The other culprits are the beef, cheeses, avocados and ranch dressing.

Equivalent

One Freshii Burrito with a whole wheat tortilla, brown rice, black beans, steak, jack and cheddar cheeses, avocado and ranch dressing is equivalent in fat to two 470 g McCain thin crust chicken and red pepper pizzas.

Freshii Turkey Wrap

262 calories/11g of fat/1,077 mg sodium

The turkey is leaner than the beef and the salsa replaces the high calorie and fat ranch dressing.

Catch of the day in a taco

1. Heat the oven to 200 F.

2. In a food processor, combine the avocado, buttermilk, 1 clove of garlic, lime juice and salt and pepper. Puree until smooth, then set aside.

3. In bowl, combine cabbage, remaining garlic, carrot, radishes, vinegar, sugar, lime zest and hot sauce. Season with salt and pepper and toss well. Set aside.

4. Heat skillet (such as cast-iron or stainless steel, but not non-stick) over medium heat. One at a time, place the tortillas in the skillet and toast for about 30 seconds per side. As the tortillas are toasted, stack them on a sheet of foil. Wrap foil around the tortillas, then place them in the oven to keep warm.

5. In a wide, shallow bowl, combine about 1 cup of flour with 1 tablespoon of salt and 1 teaspoon of pepper. One at a time, dredge each piece of fish through the flour until coated evenly. Shake off any excess.

6. In nonstick skillet over medium-high, heat 1 tablespoon of oil over medium-high. Add half of the fish to the pan and cook, turning once, until golden and cooked through, about 3 minutes a side. Transfer to an oven-safe plate and set in the oven to keep warm. Repeat with the remaining oil and fish.

7. To serve, top each tortilla with a bit of the avocado purée, then a piece of fish. Drain cabbage mix, then mound some of that over each portion. Serve

Ingredients

- 1 large Hass avocado, peeled, pitted and cut into eighths
- 1/3 cup buttermilk
- 2 cloves garlic, minced, divided
- Juice of 1 lime
- Kosher salt and ground black pepper, to taste
- 3 cups shredded Napa cabbage
- 1 1/2 cups coarsely grated carrot
- 1 cup coarsely grated radishes
- 1/4 cup white wine vinegar
- 1/4 tsp sugar, or to taste
- Zest of 1 lime
- Hot sauce, to taste
- Eight 6-inch corn tortillas
- Whole-wheat flour, for coating the fish
- 1 lb tilapia fillets, cut into 8 equal pieces
- 3 tbsp vegetable oil
- Sliced fresh jalapeno peppers, to serve
- Chopped fresh cilantro, to serve with jalapeno slices and cilantro on the side.

DALPLEX

The main madam of media on social life

This girl's no Twit.

Twitter's Canadian director Kirstine Stewart chats about the company's move to Canada, how to tweet effectively, and how she hopes to encourage greater activity

Even before she officially joined the team at Twitter, the CBC's former executive vice-president of English services, Kirstine Stewart, was doing her part to boost the social network's profile in Canada.

The frequent Twitter user with nearly 17,000 tweets to her name proudly proclaims that she was the one responsible for convincing the always controversial and quotable Don Cherry to sign up for the social network last year.

On Thursday, she was trying to generate some more tweets in a more official capacity. Representatives from some of the biggest brands in Canada packed a convention room in Toronto for the official launch of Twitter Canada, where Stewart was joined by a host of "VITS" (very important tweeters) including Dragons' Den judge Arlene Dickinson and Montreal Canadiens defenceman PK Subban.

Twitter's Canadian director, Kirstine Stewart.

HANDOUT

Since becoming the company's Canadian director a month ago, Stewart has announced big partnership deals with Bell Media and Shaw Media.

Is this platform passé?

- According to a recent report by the Media Technology Monitor, based on surveys conducted in the fall with 4,001 anglophone Canadians, less than one in five Internet users said they were on Twitter in the past month, although those numbers had grown by 80 per cent in a year, up from just 10 per cent in 2011.

What have you learned since joining Twitter?

I didn't understand how quickly the technology can move to benefit the user. It's been fascinating, when you think about Twitter only being seven years old. ... But I almost don't feel like I'm behind because there's always something new to learn.

How will you get Internet users who currently think Twitter isn't really for them to join in?

Do you think before you tweet or do you not care which thoughts are in the air? ISTOCK

I think people in Canada, we're pretty technology (friendly); we're not fearful. I think the nice thing about all the different kinds of technology in Canada is we pick it up pretty quickly. There's obviously opportunities to develop more engagement on Twitter. In particular, creating great content will just drive people. It actually pulls them instead of driving them, they're actually pulled to great content. And I think people will have a hard time avoiding Twitter.

You've held high-profile positions that could be jeopardized by a poorly worded tweet. How do you keep yourself out of trouble but stay interesting? How often do you think twice about a tweet and delete it instead of hitting send?

I don't think I've ever deleted a tweet mid-tweet. ... I think you know what to engage in and to not engage in. And I think it is (good to have) that great blend of personal and professional, but whatever you're putting out there on Twitter you've got to know that it's not just available to every Canadian, it's broadcast worldwide. There might be a level of caution but I think if there's authenticity, if you're true to yourself and you talk about things that matter to you, you're going to find people it also matters to as well. You just have to be real.

Jays overwhelm Rangers for sweep

Chien-Ming Wang won for the first time in more than a year, Colby Rasmus homered for a third straight game and the Toronto Blue Jays completed a four-game sweep by beating the Texas Rangers 7-2 on Sunday for their fifth straight victory.

The Rangers lost their sixth in a row and fell to 1-6 on a season-high, 11-game homestand. Texas has dropped six straight for the first time since April 15 to 21, 2010.

Wang (1-0) allowed seven hits in seven shut-out innings to win for the first time since last June 12 with Washington.

Adam Lind hit a three-run homer and J.P. Arencibia added a two-run shot for Toronto. The Blue Jays outscored the Rangers 24-4 to sweep a four-game series at Texas for the first time. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Justin Rose celebrates with the U.S. Open Trophy following his win at Merion Golf Club on Sunday in Ardmore, Pa. ANDREW REDINGTON/GETTY IMAGES

Rose blooms in time for 1st major victory

Golf. Englishman calm in making clutch shots while Mickelson plays to sixth second-place finish at U.S. Open

A steady hand gave Justin Rose the shiny U.S. Open Trophy. A wild ride gave Phil Mickelson yet another silver medal.

Rose captured his first major championship on Sunday with remarkable calm and three pure shots on the punishing closing holes at Merion. A par on the 18th hole gave him an even-par 70, and that was good enough for him to become the first Englishman in 43 years to win America's national championship.

Rose hit 5-iron to the first cut of rough, pin-high on the 17th for an easy par. He smashed the most important tee shot of his career down the middle on the final hole, about 10 yards short of the famous Ben Hogan plaque. And his approach rolled near the pin and settled against the collar of the green.

"When I came over the hill and saw my ball laying in the fairway, I thought, 'This is my moment.' It was me hitting from the middle of the fairway," Rose said.

As usual, someone's big moment in the U.S. Open came at Mickelson's expense.

With fans chanting, "Let's go Phil!" Mickelson paced off a last-ditch effort to force a play-off. It was a long shot — the 18th hole didn't yield a single birdie all weekend. From about 40 yards away, Mickelson's chip for birdie raced by the cup, securing Rose's victory.

Mickelson, already in the U.S. Open record book with five second-place finishes, wound up with a bogey on the 18th for a 74 and tied for second with Jason Day, who closed with a 71. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Merion tames Tiger

Tiger Woods wore his usual Sunday red shirt, but it didn't keep him from quickly achieving a dubious double — out of bounds and a 3-putt on the same hole. That made for a triple-bogey 8 at No. 2. He shot a 74 to finish 13 over par.

- Sunday was five years to the day since Woods won the U.S. Open at Torrey Pines. His running tally of majors wins is stuck on 14, four shy of Jack Nicklaus' record.

MVP shrugs off broken foot

Alex Ovechkin said his broken left foot is healing well after playing almost three full games on it last month.

The Washington Capitals captain, who won his third Hart Trophy as the NHL's MVP, suffered a hairline fracture in Game 6 of the Eastern Conference quarter-finals against the New York Rangers. He did not miss any time, playing in Game 7 the next night and then at the IIHF world championship days later.

"Foot is OK," Ovechkin said on a conference call Sunday morning. "Right now I'm walking fine. I'm gonna start playing tennis soon so I'm gonna be in good shape. ... It's kind of getting better. I feel pretty good about my foot."

Ovechkin kept playing because he could not make the injury worse. He knew something was wrong but said Sunday morning on a conference call that he did not have an MRI until after playing for Russia in Stockholm.

"It doesn't matter what happens. You have to be there and you have to play the best that you can," Ovechkin said.

Crosby keeps it close

Alex Ovechkin received 50 first-place Hart Trophy votes to Sidney Crosby's 46.

- Crosby missed 12 games (broken jaw), but still finished with the same point total as Ovechkin (56).
- Crosby earned the Ted Lindsay Award as the most outstanding player as voted by members of the NHLPA.

Balanced battle of the B's all even for Game 3

Stanley Cup final.

Neck-and-neck faceoff has the makings of a marathon series

Jaromir Jagr heard the clank of the puck off the post and did all he could to contain his emotions. Patrick Sharp had to move on, too, after he came oh so close to ending Game 2 of the Stanley Cup final.

Both players had no choice, even as they lamented the "game of inches" they deal with every day. In this series it's particularly difficult because the Boston Bruins and Chicago Blackhawks appear so evenly matched.

The difference between the Blackhawks being up 2-0 and the teams being tied going into Game 3 Monday night in Boston? "We score

Blackhawks centre Jonathan Toews shoots the puck wide against Tuukka Rask in Game 2 of the Stanley Cup final on Saturday. CHARLES REX ARBOGAST/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS an extra goal," Bruins captain Zdeno Chara said.

It is that tight after 186 minutes of hockey, as the Blackhawks and Bruins come to grips with the closeness of the cup final and the razor-thin margin for error.

"No one said it was going to be easy," Chicago captain Jonathan Toews said. "No one said everything was going to go our way. Some moments, you feel pretty darn good, like when we won Game 1 in triple overtime, and (Saturday night) it doesn't feel good. You've got to find a way to get over it to move to the next time you're going to be on the ice, and not let it affect you."

It's the first time in nine years that the cup final is tied at a game apiece. The last occurrence came when the Tampa Bay Lightning faced the Calgary Flames in 2004, winning in seven.

Before last season, the last time the first two games went to overtime was 1951. It has created plenty of drama and frustration, especially for Jagr, who came close to winning each game.

"I got no problem with it. It's a hockey game," Jagr said. "It's not (a) problem for me. Of course you have to forget about it and try to score next time."

The Blackhawks know all too well about a series hanging in the balance in overtime. They needed it to beat the Detroit Red Wings in Game 7 of the Western Conference semifinals and then again to put away the Los Angeles Kings a round later.

One win away. Spurs shoot down Heat in Game 5

Manu Ginobili had 24 points and 10 assists in a surprise start to spark the San Antonio Spurs to a 114-104 victory over the Miami Heat in Game 5 of the NBA Finals on Sunday night, pushing the Spurs one victory away from their fifth championship.

Danny Green scored 24 points and broke Ray Allen's finals record for three-pointers in a series with 25. Tony Parker had 26 points for San Antonio.

LeBron James scored 25 points on 8-for-22 shooting for the Heat and Dwyane Wade had 25 points and 10 assists. But the Heat missed 21 of their first 29 shots to fall behind by 17 points in the second quarter of another uninspired performance.

Game 6 of the best-of-seven series is Tuesday night in Miami.

Whirling through the defence like the Manu of old, Ginobili shrugged off a post-season full of disappointment to deliver a performance that the Spurs have never needed more desperately. He hit 8 of 14 shots and had his highest points total since June 4, 2012.

Tim Duncan had 13 points and 11 rebounds, Green was 6 for 10 from three-point range, and Parker gutted through 36 minutes on a tender right hamstring.

Allen scored 21 points and Chris Bosh had 16 points and six rebounds for the Heat, who were stunned by a vintage Ginobili performance early and never really recovered.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

Despite what you might believe, nothing is holding you back. It may seem as if barriers are blocking your path but the closer you get to them, the further away they will retreat.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

You may have a lot of ground to make up on rivals and competitors but there is no need to rush things. Spend the first few days of the week just watching and waiting. Your time will come — soon.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

You will gain a lot more respect today if you are direct with people. Forget about being polite, just say what needs to be said. You don't have time to worry about people's precious feelings.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Don't choose the easy option just because you cannot be bothered to make much of an effort. If you let things slide now you will only have to work twice as hard later to make up for lost time. Be sensible.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

You must not let your standards slip today. If you do, others will use that as an excuse to give less than they should. Always be a good example and do your very best.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

If you slow down to think about what you are doing today you run the risk of stopping altogether. Keep your momentum going and keep moving towards your goal.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

You may be tempted to highlight something you know a friend would be embarrassed by. It might be worth a laugh but what would it do to your relationship? Keep it to yourself.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Steer clear of financial matters that have nothing to do with you. If you allow yourself to be drawn into a situation you know little about at best you will gain nothing — and you may lose a lot.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Any disagreements you may be having will be short-lived, so don't place too much importance on them. This may even be one of those occasions when drama brings you closer to the ones you love.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

The planets are urging you to aim high, even if your resources are low. The bigger your plans, the harder you will work and the more likely it is you will attract the opportunities you need to grow.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

It's OK envy others' achievements as it encourages you to do better. Over the next few days, you'll be inspired to copy someone you look up to. Soon others will be copying you.

Pisces

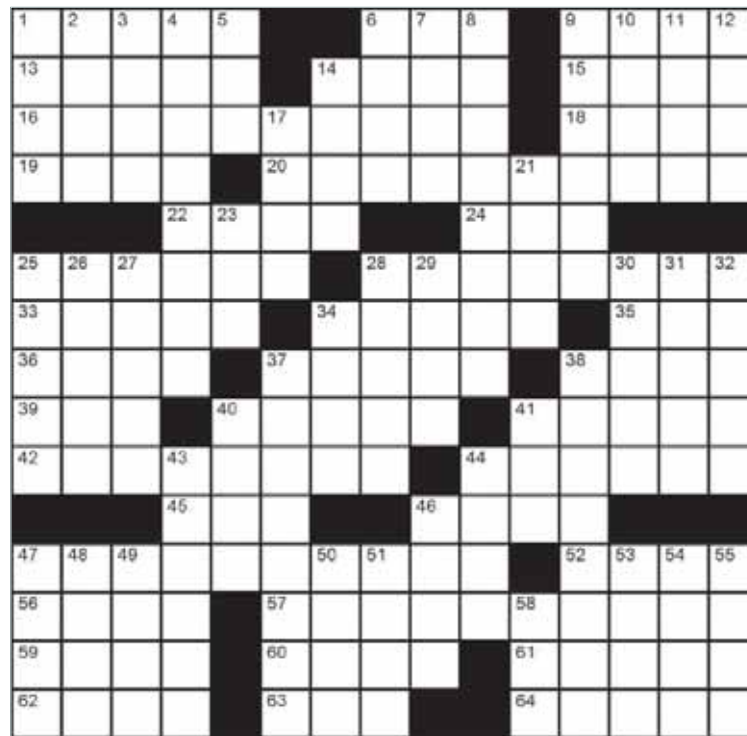

Feb. 20 - March 20

A windfall of some kind helps you believe Lady Luck is on your side, which in turn makes it easier to take calculated risks that improve your chances of success. SALLY BROMPTON
